

Gifts of Life Insurance

Thank you for your interest in supporting our health care mission. Donating a life insurance policy can be an effective way to support your favorite Aurora hospital or program. This kind of gift allows you to make a significant charitable gift, either during your lifetime or by a beneficiary designation when you pass. Consider the following benefits of a life insurance gift:

- The full proceeds may be made payable to an Aurora hospital or program to make sure your charitable giving goals are met.
- Gifts of life insurance could allow you to magnify your dollars as your smaller annual premiums allow Aurora to receive a larger sum in the future.
- Gifts made through life insurance may be kept private and outside of probate.

You can make gifts of Life insurance in a variety of ways, including the following:

Donating the cash value - Transfer your policy to Aurora Health Care Foundation and receive a charitable deduction based on the policy's cash value or its cost basis, whichever is less.

Donating the policy and continue to make premium payments – You will receive a charitable deduction for the cash value or cost basis, and for the value of annual premiums paid.

Add your Aurora hospital as a beneficiary – You can arrange a significant gift by simply changing your beneficiary designation on your policy to include your Aurora hospital.

How it could work for you

Assume you own a whole life policy which you no longer need. Over the years, the policy's cash value has grown to $20,000. You decide to transfer ownership of the policy to Aurora Health Care Foundation to support your favorite Aurora hospital or program.

As a result of your gift of the policy, you may qualify for a charitable deduction based on the lesser of the fair market value or the net of premiums you have paid.

Contact your professional advisor to discuss how a gift of life insurance might benefit you.
